Assessment

Pre-Tests and Post-Tests

Focus: Self-Assessment

1. Create, prior to a new unit, a pre-test based on the material students will study.
2. Create a parallel post-test to administer after the unit is complete.
3. Give students the pre-test as a self-assessment. Have students use their scores to help them focus on specific areas of study during the unit.
4. Have them document the areas of focus in a learning log. They may also generate questions about the topic of study.
5. Administer the post-test after the unit is over.
6. Have students make a bar graph of “before” and “after” scores.
